

- Tour the famed AT&T Cowboys Stadium – the world’s largest domed structure. Dallas Cowboys legendary owner, Jerry Jones, long believed his team – America’s Team – needed a stadium that matched the club’s iconic status. His big dream became a reality when AT&T Stadium opened in June 2009, just twenty minutes from Fort Worth. The dazzling $1.2 billion stadium was home to Super Bowl XLV.

- Just a stone’s throw away from AT&T Stadium is Globe Life Park in Arlington – home to the American League’s Texas Rangers and host to the 2010 and 2011 World Series. Take a tour of the ballpark, catch an afternoon game and munch on Texas-sized favorites.

- Meet the original cowboys and Texas Rangers in the Fort Worth Stockyards National Historic District at the Texas Cowboy Hall of Fame.

Afterwards kick your boots up at a true Western watering hole, the White Elephant Saloon, which was the inspiration for C.D.’s Bar on the TV series Walker, Texas Ranger.

- Continue the Western experience at the Stockyards Championship Rodeo in Cowtown Coliseum every Friday and Saturday night at 8 p.m., featuring bull riding, barrel racing, calf roping and more.

- End your Texas-filled night at Billy Bob’s Texas, the world’s largest honky-tonk, for live bull riding, live music and the best in two-stepping.
