How to Visit the Loudoun Wineries

This guide is organized by geographical clusters for easier planning reference. For current hours and directions, please contact the winery. Many wineries have policies regarding pets, picnics and group visits. If you plan on visiting with a group of six or more people, please call the winery to confirm their policy and make a reservation.

Loudoun Offers More Than Just Grapes!

Virginia is one of the top apple producers in the country (5 to 6 million bushels annually), so it was only a matter of time before cideries made their mark in Loudoun. Enjoy bourbon-barrel aged hard ciders made with nontraditional fruits and hops, which create sophisticated flavors. Try a tasting at one of these great cideries, and make sure to celebrate Virginia Cider Week each November ciderweekva.com.

Welcome to DC's Wine Country®

Boasting a well-respected agricultural tradition and rolling hills laced with vineyards, Loudoun has emerged as DC's Wine Country®, one of the preeminent wine regions of the East Coast. The soil, climate and sunlight create excellent growing conditions for white varietals such as Viognier, as well as reds ranging from Cabernet Franc and Petit Verdot to Virginia's native grape, the Norton.

Throughout the countryside more than 40 wineries and tasting rooms are intertwined along country roads, nestled between horse farms and historic estates.

Many of our boutique-style wineries thrive on creating an intimate and relaxing experience for visitors, as our winemakers believe wine tasting is as personal as wine making. Loudoun's winemakers are judged every year during the Loudoun Wine Awards, an event which showcases the depth of quality wine being produced in the county. To read more about the latest award-winning wines, visit LoudounWineAwards.com.
