

VISIT OAKLAND FEATURES JINGLETOWN FOR FEBRUARY OAKLAND SPOTLIGHT PROGRAM

Oakland, CA (February 1, 2017) —Visit Oakland, the city's official destination marketing organization, encourages visitors to explore Jingtletown during the month of February. The Jingtletown neighborhood is a vibrant arts community, with many galleries, art classes, restaurants, winery, brewery and more.

“Jingtletown acquired its name at the turn of the century when Portuguese cannery workers whose earnings would “jingle” in their pockets at the end of the day as they walked home from the factories in the area, signifying prosperity,” says Councilmember Noel Gallo. “In the early 1980’s artists realized the potential and converted many of the neglected warehouses into functioning live/work spaces. It is now a thriving artist community.”

“Jingtletown is a burgeoning artists' community that's become a destination for Bay Area art lovers,” says Jan Watten, Jingtletown resident and owner of Gray Loft Gallery. “Living and working in Jingtletown are sculptors, painters, photographers, musicians, and mixed media artists. Many prominent artists began their careers in Jingtletown, living and working in studios in the many converted warehouses and live/work lofts. The neighborhood is also known for its vibrant murals created by local artists, our 2nd Friday art receptions each month, and is a magnet in June and December when artists open their studios up for bi-annual open studio events. It’s a funky and fun area not to be missed in the growing Oakland art scene.”
