A TASTE OF HISTORY

THE LEGACY OF FREEMAN AND HARRIS CAFÉ

The original Freeman and Harris Café opened in 1921 near downtown Shreveport. By the time the business ceased operations, it had become one of the oldest black-owned restaurants in the United States. Over the course of nearly eight decades in business, the restaurant served as a training ground for countless black chefs and restaurateurs in Shreveport, including restaurateur and civic leader Pete Harris, whose Pete Harris Café was an important local gathering place until its closure in 2006.

Today, the best way to taste the legacy of Freeman and Harris Café is by ordering Shreveport-style stuffed shrimp at eateries including Brother's Seafood Restaurant, Eddie's Seafood and Soul Food and C&C Café.

SHREVEPORT-STYLE STUFFED SHRIMP

Various Eateries

Shreveport-style stuffed shrimp are a local delicacy that originated in the kitchen of the Freeman and Harris Café. Large shrimp are stuffed with Creole dressing, deep-fried and served with spicy tartar sauce. Try them at Eddie's Restaurant (1956 Hollywood Avenue), Brother's Seafood (4916 Monkhouse Drive) or C&C Café (1765 Milam Street) in Shreveport. $

A TASTE OF HISTORY OF LOG JAMS AND LOCAL BREWS

The name Great Raft Brewing may be a bit perplexing to craft beer lovers who aren't from Shreveport. The local brewery, opened in December 2013, takes its name from the Great Raft, a 150 mile-long log jam that once impeded navigation of the Red River. The raft was cleared by inventor and steamboat captain Henry Miller Shreve, from whom Shreveport takes its name. Red River Brewing Company in Shreveport also references the legendary log jam with the name of their light German lager, Heliopolis. Heliopolis was the name of the "snagboat" that Captain Shreve invented to help dislodge large concentrations of dead wood.
