A Newport Resort Is Making Summer in Rhode Island Even More Luxe

This unique property has the feeling and amenities of being on a luxury liner sans the seasickness.

The exclusive enclave of Newport, made famous by Gilded Age elite, has a new, happening resort. Gurney's Newport Resort & Marina, a sister property to famed Gurney's Montauk, opened in 2017 with unobstructed water views — and ultra-preppy guests posing in front of them.

Situated on 10-acre Goat Island (yes, real-life goats still reside here in their own enclosure) and surrounded on all sides by water, this unique property has the feeling and amenities of being on a luxury liner sans the seasickness. Toss some Top-Siders in your weekender bag, ditch the Dramamine, and prepare to soak up the nautical ambience.

The 257-room resort — which includes a charming green lighthouse and plenty of crisp, white Adirondack chairs for drinking in the views of Narragansett Bay, Newport Harbor, and the Newport Bridge — is located just one mile (a free five-minute shuttle ride) from the happening downtown scene.

But like today's amenity-laden cruise ships, there's really no need to leave: The resort boasts a fitness center and spa with private deck; a branch of celebrity chef Scott Conant's fine-dining Italian restaurant, Scarpetta; indoor and outdoor pools; a buzzy three-tiered outdoor deck with comfy couches and sleek firepits; and, for seafaring sorts, a 22-foot marina — all right on-site. • Summer rates from $799/night; www.gurneysresorts.com
