

The Daily Telegraph, Saturday 13 October 2018

THEATRE
By Frances Carroll and Sam Apple

Storm in a tea room
By David Hare

David Hare's new play, Storm in a Tea Room, is a powerful and moving portrait of a woman's life in a care home. It is a play about the power of the imagination and the power of the human spirit. It is a play about the power of the imagination and the power of the human spirit. It is a play about the power of the imagination and the power of the human spirit.

ON THE BROADWAY
The Broadway production of Storm in a Tea Room is a powerful and moving portrait of a woman's life in a care home. It is a play about the power of the imagination and the power of the human spirit. It is a play about the power of the imagination and the power of the human spirit.

17-20 OCTOBER
Affordable Art Fair
Battersea Park, London
with JIM FENN

OPERA
The Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, London

CLASSICAL & JAZZ
The Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, London

HALF PRICE TICKETS
Use code TELEGRAPHART on affordableartfair.com

