

A photograph of a busy city street during a rainstorm, viewed through a window covered in water droplets. The street is wet and reflects the surrounding buildings and traffic. Pedestrians and cars are visible in the distance, creating a sense of movement and atmosphere. The overall tone is somewhat somber and atmospheric due to the weather.

Rose
Tremain
Der weite
Weg nach
Hause

Roman Suhrkamp