

A colorful illustration of a rainy street scene. Several people are walking, some holding umbrellas. In the center, a woman in a bright yellow raincoat and a red umbrella is walking towards the right. To her left, a person in a brown coat and a maroon umbrella is walking. In the foreground, there are two more umbrellas, one blue and one brown. The background shows other people walking, including one in a green coat and another in a pink coat. The rain is depicted as vertical lines falling across the scene.
