I am a London-based filmmaker with 7 years' experience of writing, directing, editing and shooting narrative short films, promotional and educational videos, as well as filming adverts and recording corporate interviews. My ultimate goal is to write and direct feature films and/or drama series, as these are the mediums where I can most readily realise my creativity. I love all aspects of filmmaking (though particularly lighting and shooting) and view all professional assignments as a chance to develop my technical and storytelling skills.
