I have had the privilege of working with Dan Hugo on several of my projects. Most recent completion being a short film called, Soft hands, starring Perry Benson and Eddie Webber. Throughout he has been consistent, punctual, hardworking, passionate and dedicated. Dan is eager to learn and very easy to get on with, this is a great asset as it makes working with him a pure delight. I love his thinking and unique ways of capturing the scene and also how he conducts himself on and off set. He compliments the team and makes all feel at ease with his confidence and knowledge. He is someone I always opt to work with before anyone else.

2BlokesFilms have worked with Dan on a number of small productions and two features over the past

6 years, and we regard him as being very much a part of the 2BlokesFilms experience. A conscientious Filmmaker who when crewing follows direction well, but also brings his own creative perspective of any scene to the attention of the director where the storyline can be made better. Dan is a trusted cinematographer who's knowledge has been invaluable and extremely useful to our productions overall.

A very likable individual who knows the importance of team work whilst understanding the obstacles that productions often produce, taking care of them knowing the importance of his role and where he fits in, he is always looking at the bigger picture rather than the here and now.

Dan Hugo

With a passion for film and creativity Dan naturalizes his work with great effect, this is very evident in his own style of filming, and having gone on to producing and creating his very own shorts and documentaries as part of the Outline Media Productions venture that he set up and created as the director.

2BlokesFilm highly recommend Dan to any production team that is seeing a keen individual to fit in with the team spirit of film making, and someone they can rely on and trust. We also recommend Outline Media Productions to any company or brand wishing to bring a product on to the market or advertise and revitalize a current product to a greater audience.

Dan Has been an asset to many of our films and it's been a pleasure seeing him flourish. He was involved in previous film projects in various roles, including camera assistant. He's worked on our projects for 5 years. He recently has been our DOP on two films, The Edge & Absence.

Dan has a great eye, and knowledge. More importantly he's reliable and has a lovely calm temperament and is always willing to learn from others.

We wouldn't hesitate to work with him again on future film projects.
