

Forever Young

BY JOHN MELLENCAMP

Here we are in the grays of winter
Here we are just me and you
Hold my hand, let's face tomorrow
Tomorrow still holds out its hands to you

This precious time we've only borrowed
The autumn winds have blown on through
A quiet thought will tell our story
Tomorrow still holds out its hands to you
Yes, tomorrow still holds out its hands to you

Here some wings, they're yours forever
And here's some dreams that will come true
Take these tears, wash away your sorrows
Tomorrow still holds out its hands to you
Yes, tomorrow still holds out its hand to you
Yes, tomorrow still holds out its hands to you

Celebrating THE LIFE OF

Richard Smeltzer

NOVEMBER 8, 1960

MARCH 4, 2019

Richard Leonard Smeltzer, beloved husband of Sherry Smeltzer (née Witwicki), of Lethbridge and formerly of Calgary, passed away peacefully at home with family by his side on Monday, March 4, 2019 at the age of 58 years.

Richard is survived by his loving wife, two stepchildren, five grandchildren and seven siblings. He was predeceased by his parents and grandparents and twin stepchildren.

Richard was born November 8, 1960 in Montreal, to Elsie and Ron Smeltzer. He moved to Calgary, where his passion was truck driving for Chief Duckering & Hills until cancer caused him to retire. He met the love of his life, Sherry, and they were married on January 24, 1998, gaining two children, Diane (Calgary) and John (Taber). Richard battled cancer for 21 years.
