Thoughts of Forever

Just after five, your day begins
The first of chores that never ends

Then off to work with aches and pains
With friends, you'll smile; it keeps you sane

At five, you're home to clean and cook
When that is done, for more you'll look

Your family is first; forever Mother
A special spot reserved for brother

Though some would say you're slightly small
Add pride and courage- you're ten feet tall

You long to fly and see the sights
Seems strange for one whose fear is heights

We've talked of love and twists of fate
We both agree we met too late

When bedtime comes, I'll hear you say
Will my love last? Forever, always

If first I stand at heaven's gate
Inside to the right is where I'll wait

My love is forever, always and true
Forever is 'til death and more, times two
