Enabling the application of digital capabilities to transform education and research.

Who is CAUDIT?

The Council of Australasian University Directors of Information Technology (CAUDIT) is the peak body for ICT in the Higher Education and Research sector. CAUDIT brings together University and Research Institutions from across Australasia. Members include all public universities in Australia and New Zealand along with those of Papua New Guinea and Fiji plus key national research institutions in Australia.

Beginning with some formality in 1976 (and informally 10 years prior to that), CAUDIT has been an incorporated not-for-profit association since 2010 and is owned, funded and directed by its Members. Member Representatives are the most senior person leading IT in their institution i.e. the CIO, CDO or IT Director of each member institution.

CAUDIT's purpose is to support each other in leading the application of digital capabilities to transform education and research. CAUDIT supports Member Representatives and their teams through the provision of a broad range of services that foster collaboration, leadership and good practice among Members. Three strategies provide the focus for CAUDIT's activities: connecting, enabling and challenging our members.

At a personal level, the relationships built through CAUDIT are invaluable and can be a key factor contributing to success in your role.

We look forward to working with and supporting you.

CAUDIT Portfolios

Procurement

Leveraging collective buying power to derive maximum mutual value

CAUDIT negotiates with ICT vendors on a sector-wide basis to derive maximum mutual value and ensure that staff from member institutions have a good understanding of current vendor offerings to CAUDIT members.

Benefits of CAUDIT's Strategic Procurement activities:

Cost Reduction

A reduction in the cost to do business including sector savings in procurement staff resources; these cost savings should be evident for both CAUDIT Members and the vendor.

Demand Aggregation

An improved ability for CAUDIT to aggregate demand for product and services via term, group or volume purchasing commitments. This also leads to greater leverage in the marketplace to influence product development and direction.

Standardisation

Improved coordination between the CAUDIT membership with respect to the product and services being used in order to simplify the service and technology mix in use within CAUDIT Members and support processes within and between CAUDIT Members.

Simplified Processes

A reduction in the bureaucracy required to engage with vendors, including (but not limited to) common terms and conditions, a single price list and improved handling of procurement processes.

Information Sharing

Improved communication between vendors and the CAUDIT Membership including technology roadmaps, support and process information and general communications.

Benchmarking

CAUDIT's benchmarking data offers trusted, confidential reference points that support Member Representatives to plan for and maintain high performance returns from IT capabilities and assets within their organisations. Annually since 2003, CAUDIT Members submit information into the CAUDIT Benchmarking System to produce the Annual CAUDIT Benchmarking Report and provide direct access to the data with the Online Access Data Service. Access is available to CAUDIT CIOs/IT Directors and to their authorised staff members with the data usage governed by an Acceptable Use Policy.

Top Ten Topics

The annual Top Ten Topics report presents the most significant technology-related topics for higher education in Australia and New Zealand. The topic ranking emerges from analysis of survey returns from CAUDIT Member Representatives. Each year the survey is modified to incorporate the changing profile of technology-related priorities across the sector.

Surveys

Information from CAUDIT colleagues on any issue can be obtained using the CAUDIT Survey Service. On request, CAUDIT facilitates the collection of survey data on behalf of the initiating institution. The resulting feedback and analysis is not only useful to the initiating survey institute, but more often than not also to the sector more broadly.

CAUDIT Complexity Index

CAUDIT pioneered the concept of the Complexity Index to enable meaningful benchmark comparisons across its membership and ultimately with other national higher education sectors. It is based on four key measures, namely: Number of students (EFTSL), Number of staff (FTE), Research income ($), Number and size of different university sites serviced by IT

Value to members

Past members on CAUDIT's value

"CAUDIT delivers tremendous value, not just from the savings in procurement but much more than that – the development of our managers and leaders and the collaborative initiatives that could not be achieved individually."

Michael Kirby-Lewis, Ex CIO, University of New South Wales

"As an IT Director in the Higher Education sector, I often thought of CAUDIT membership in line with the old saying 'you only get out what you put in'. While the saying holds true to some extent, participation in CAUDIT yields significant benefit and value through membership alone. An impressive list of collaborative achievements attests to the ability of the organisation to deliver value for individual member institutions and the wider sector."

Rick Van Haeften, Ex Director IT, Australian Catholic University and Australian National University

"Many industries have groups that are of value, however I think CAUDIT is a bit unusual. The things that have been achieved by working together are of significant benefit to the University sector as a whole. While most of us recognise this at the time, it's sometimes only when you've left the sector that you can look back and truly understand how unique and valuable CAUDIT is."

Matthew Smith, Ex Director Technology Services and CIO, Southern Cross University

Leadership Institute

The CLI was unlike any other leadership training. From the interaction & networking with like-minded peers, key leadership development/ theories to ensure I develop as a valued leader within my organisation and a clear focus on the higher education sector, the opportunity far exceeded my expectations.

The whole event was amazing! The CAUDIT LI is a well-developed and delivered programme where executive leaders share their knowledge on how to be a better person and grow your career. The week was full of learning, activities and laughter. You leave with new skills and a lot of friends. Amazing programme!

There were no flat spots. The enthusiasm from faculty and students was infectious which led to great energy and a whole lot of fun. I'd recommend CLI to anyone wanting to improve their leadership skills or gain advice on how to climb the ladder. The quality of content is superb and the teachers are passionate, entertaining and completely approachable. If you can, do it!

This was a landmark experience in my leadership growth... it has deeply informed my professional and personal development objectives going forward.

The CLI is an exceptional forum that I would recommend to anyone seeking to further their leadership capabilities in a Higher Education context.

Managers Program

Really this program has been one of the best I have attended and I can't speak highly enough of what I'm learning and how it is helping to drive change that will make me more effective and reduce stress. Thanks so much again to Cass and Semir as well for all the organisation efforts was fantastic. Love the talk from the CIO and the networking it is so valuable."

I got a lot of value out of the program. The content & pace really helped my understanding & enabled me to make quite significant changes to the ways I work....The coaching sessions have also helped me to discuss issues & work through them. I would highly recommend this course to anyone who wants to discover more about themselves to become more effective leaders.

Loved it. I always come away feeling more positive and reenergised and feeling really honoured to have been given the opportunity to attend this course.
