Elite runners

Min Qi (CHN, UTMB Index 836) is looking to end the season on a high in the 100M after struggling over the longer distances this year. He will line-up alongside top talent, including Terunobu Kurokawa (JPN, UTMB Index 823) and Zhaoying Liu (CHN, UTMB Index 803). In the women's race, Lin Chen (CHN, UTMB Index 741) comes into the race off the back of an impressive fourth place finish at UTMB®. Ki Chun Wong (CHN, UTMB Index 683) is also amongst the favorites, and has experience on her side having finished second in the 100K race in 2023.

The top-ranked female athlete in Hong Kong, Man Yee Cheung (HKG, UTMB Index 677) is seizing the opportunity to race on home soil, taking on the 100K race. She will face strong international competition, including Natalia Mastrota (ITA, UTMB Index 676) and Aurora Dacier (FRA, UTMB Index 676). The men's race also features a talent of international athletes, with local favorite Ho Chung Wong (HKG, UTMB Index 788) looking to challenge for a podium spot ahead of top-ranked Anders Kjaerevik (NOR, UTMB Index 889) and Disi Liang (CHN, UTMB Index 793).

In the 50K, a close battle is expected between athletes such as Claudio Diaz-Castán (ESP, UTMB Index 857) and Yutaro Yokouchi (JPN, UTMB Index 821). In the women's race, top athletes include Yuri Yoshizumi (JPN, UTMB Index 746) and Marta Perez Maroto (ESP, UTMB Index 701).

The spotlight is also on Hong-Kong based athlete, Veronika Leng (SVK, UTMB Index 720). After a tough DNF at the 2022 HOKA UTMB® MontBlanc - CCC® due to an unknown pregnancy, she made an incredible comeback to the race in 2024 as a new mum, securing 11th place.

She said, "It feels amazing being back to racing and feeling strong physically and mentally after having a baby just over a year ago. It didn't happen overnight for me, and it took many months to feel ready for it again. Beside hours of consistent training, it also takes an incredible amount of mental strength and sacrifice to compete at an elite level, especially as a new mother. If you are not 100% in it, there is no chance of getting on top again. I feel so lucky to have the needed support here in Hong Kong and be able to get back to training and racing this year."

Another exceptional athlete to look out for on the start list is Miao Yao (CHN, UTMB Index 796), who will be looking for a win in the women's category of the 20K race. The talented athlete has secured a victory at the HOKA UTMB MontBlanc - OCC this year, alongside the CCC in 2018. In the men's race, Riccardo Scalet (ITA, UTMB Index 838) heads into the race as the top-ranked.

A five-time Paralympian, a trailblazing mother, and a brain injury survivor among the 3,200 inspiring athletes ready to take on Ultra-Trail Kosciuszko by UTMB

ULTRA-TRAIL KOSCIUSZKO™ BY UTMB® AUSTRALIA, OCEANIA

From 28-30 November, the Snowy Mountains National Park in New South Wales, Australia will come alive as over 3,200 athletes come together for Ultra-Trail Kosciuszko by UTMB. From brain injury survivors to Paralympians, this year's lineup is nothing short of remarkable.

In the KosciMiller (100M), Zachary Jones exemplifies resilience. After a traumatic brain injury and stroke in 2011, doctors told him he would never walk or talk again. Defying all odds, he now prepares to conquer the 100-mile course.

Ruth Eagles will also make her debut in the 100-mile distance. Eager to address the under-representation of women in the longer distance events, she hopes to inspire more women to rise to challenge and push their limits.

Meanwhile, in the Kosci100 (100K), five-time Paralympian Michael Roeger, fresh off his silver medal at the Paris 2024 Paralympic Games in the Men's 1,500m - T46, will test his endurance on the trails. Holding the title as the fastest Paralympian marathon runner with a time of 2:18, Roeger will excel in the 100K distance too.

He said, "Last year I watched the Ultra-Trail Kosciuszko live stream and I thought 'these guys are crazy' and immediately wanted to be there. I never really thought I could run 100km, let alone with 3,000m elevation at altitude, so it is going to be a big challenge. When I was training before the Paralympics a few months ago in St Moritz, Switzerland, I loved running up and down hills in the mountains. I thought I would need a goal after the Paralympics, a crazy goal and Kosci fits well."

"It is such a different culture than track and road running. Everyone really gets behind each other and supports each other," he added.

Elite runners

The inspiration and excitement continues amongst the elite start list, including the two runners-up in the men and women race from the 100M in 2023, Takumi Sawayanagi (JPN, UTMB Index 791) and Stephanie Auston (AUS, UTMB Index 720). Both will face tough competition however, including Piotr Babis (POL, UTMB Index 840) and Mike Carroll (AUS, UTMB Index 836) in the men's race. Two-time top ten finisher at UTMB, Sabrina Stanley (USA, UTMB Index 705) is also a top favorite in the women's race.

In the Kosci100 (100K), Abby Hall (USA, UTMB Index 750) and Katarzyna Solinska (POL, UTMB Index 748) head into the women's race as the top-ranked, while the men's race looks set to be an all-Australasia podium with Sam Harvey (NZL, UTMB Index 824), Benjamin Duffus (NZL, UTMB Index 818) and Vlad Shatrov (AUS, UTMB Index 801) the top contenders.

Madison Reynolds (AUS, UTMB Index 692) returns to try and defend her title in the women's race at Kosci50 (50K), but will face top-ranked Kimber Mattox (USA, UTMB Index 744). In a fast and furious 20K, two defending champions will go head-to-head. Patricia McKibbin (AUS, UTMB Index 715), the 2023 100K winner, will shift focus to the shorter distance, but will face the reigning champion, Paige Penrose (AUS, UTMB Index 677) in an exciting duel.
