Designed and developed entirely in France, in the heart of the Alps, RunMotion Coach has established itself as one of the world's leading coaching applications for trail running. The platform offers a wide range of digital training plans tailored to everyone's level of fitness, backed up by personalised monitoring. Contents offered by the platform are available in French, English, Spanish, German and Dutch, meeting the needs of runners all over the world.

In 2025, as a new partner of the UTMB World Series, RunMotion Coach will be offering its digital coaching solution to runners at 32 events on the circuit, including the HOKA UTMB® Mont-Blanc, which hosts the circuit finals.

When registering for each race included in this partnership, participants will be offered the RunMotion Coach option, which will give them access to sports preparation programmes tailored to their objectives, their schedule, their level and conditions of fitness and training, offering daily support that meets their specific needs.

This new collaboration is in line with the UTMB World Series circuit's desire to offer a unique, premium and personalised UTMB experience. This agreement is even more obvious given that the circuit and RunMotion Coach share the ambition of democratising personalised training, with the aim of enabling everyone to progress, whatever their objectives.

Céline Prévost, UTMB Group Commercial Director, said: *“Every UTMB runner has a unique profile and an individual goal, and we are excited to partner with Run Motion Coach to support them in their journey. Whether it's the distance, elevation, or their specific objectives, we wanted to offer runners *personalised solutions. Run Motion Coach provides these tailored tools to help our runners reach the peaks they aim for”

Romain Adam – Président at RunMotion Coach, said: “The UTMB Group has successfully created a globally renowned circuit while staying true to its roots in the heart of the Alps. As Europe's leading trail running coaching app, this collaboration represents a unique opportunity to accelerate our international growth.

We are delighted to contribute to the experience of trail runners participating in the UTMB World Series, supporting individuals of all levels in achieving their goals, whether they live in the mountains or in urban areas.

This partnership with the UTMB World Series is thus a significant milestone for RunMotion Coach and will benefit many participants.”
