

ALKOOMI

Cabernet Sauvignon- Merlot

Tasting Notes:

Lifted aromas of cassis, blueberry, bay leaf and dusty savory notes. Rich flavors of cassis, blueberry and chocolate lead to a medium body with leafy, tobacco like layers and fine grained, supple tannins.

Production Notes:

68% Cabernet Sauvignon, 32% Merlot

This wine was made with Frankland River fruit from several blocks, picked at optimal ripeness to give depth of flavor.

Harvested in the early hours of the morning, the fruit was cold soaked prior to fermentation and then matured for 12 months with French oak to build complexity.

About Alkoomi:

Family run and operated vineyard in Frankland River, Western Australia. The original 1220 hectare property was purchased by Sandy's grandparents, Vic and Netta Lange, in 1946 and initially operated as a mixed grain and livestock farm. It was grandma Netta who chose the name "Alkoomi" for their rugged property, on land over two million years old – a local Aboriginal word meaning "a place we chose".

Cellar:

Ready to enjoy now, although will gain complexity over the next three to five years with careful cellaring.

Alkoomi's logo is the unique and distinctively Australian grass tree, Xanthorrhoea preissii, which flourishes on the property.

Frankland River Facts:

- Frankland River is home to eight wineries.
- The region has a cool, Mediterranean climate and a long warm growing season.
- Frankland River's remote location makes it an outstanding region to find value-for-money high quality wines.
