JEANTET ADVISES SUNLIB ON ITS €25 MILLION FUNDRAISING FROM EPOPÉE GESTION TO ACCELERATE THE DEVELOPMENT OF SOLAR SUBSCRIPTIONS IN FRANCE

Paris, January 15, 2026 - Jeantet advised SunLib in connection with the conclusion of a strategic partnership with Epopée Gestion to accelerate the deployment of turnkey photovoltaic installations to as many people as possible. SunLib offers a solar self-consumption solution available as a long-term subscription throughout France. Épopée Gestion is providing €25 million to support SunLib's very strong growth in the emerging subscription market. The company now has enhanced capacity to accelerate its pioneering and resilient business model, which aims to equip 100,000 customers by 2030.

A pioneer of solar self-consumption subscriptions in France, SunLib enables individuals, businesses and local authorities to equip themselves with photovoltaic installations by removing two major barriers: initial cost and complexity of access.

Rather than purchasing their installation, SunLib subscribers pay a monthly subscription fee for its use.

This subscription model responds to a strong aspiration of the French population, the majority of whom are in favor of solar development (86% according to a recent Ifop study). It allows as many people as possible to easily access the benefits of solar: producing and self-consuming green and renewable electricity, gaining energy autonomy, controlling their budget by reducing their energy bill, and decarbonizing without going into debt.

Already a leader in its market, SunLib demonstrates month after month that subscription is the solution of the future to meet the great challenge of the French energy transition: democratizing solar to massify electricity self-consumption, in a country where only 2.5% of French households are equipped with a photovoltaic installation, compared to 15% in Germany.

SunLib, which already has more than 300 partner installers and major brands among its distributors, is experiencing rapid growth in its subscriber base, mechanically leading to an increase in its investment needs, as the company owns the installations. The funds raised from Épopée Gestion will finance the equipment of thousands of new subscribers from 2026, while also benefiting the local network of installers.
